Midwives bridge gaps in health care

Midwives in Ontario spend four years training in low-risk obstetrics. They are registered with the College of Midwives of Ontario and are held to high standards of training and practice. Still, local midwives say, there are misconceptions about what they can provide and questions about how they fit into pregnancy care.

"Some of the misconceptions are we don't have a university education, that we're not licensed," says registered midwife Stephanie Simon, who joined the Midwifery Services of Haliburton-Bancroft in October. "Another misconception is we only do deliveries at home and that we don't do clinical things."

While midwives do offer women the option of delivering at home when it is safe to do so, they have permissions at area hospitals and carry with them the same equipment as a Level 1 hospital.

Registered midwife Kathleen Perecko says in the Haliburton and Bancroft communities there's still a gap in awareness about the work they do.

To address some of the questions and curiosity the public might have about their services, Midwifery Services of Haliburton-Bancroft along with their community support group, Friends of Haliburton-Bancroft Midwives, are hosting a Christmas open house on Friday, Nov. 25 starting at 4:30 p.m. – the same day as the Santa Claus Parade in Haliburton.

Simon says she'd love to see some of the people whose babies were born with the assistance of the midwives as well as others who would like to check out the office, at 64 Victoria St. There will be popcorn, hot chocolate and crafts for the kids.

Using a midwife offers unique benefits for expectant mothers and for postpartum care, Perecko says, and those benefits are amplified in the Highlands.

The midwives have privileges at Peterborough Regional Health Centre and Ross Memorial Hospital.

The local midwifery clinic serves the incredibly large coverage area from Coe Hill to Maynooth, Kinmount to Carnarvon. Three midwives: Simon, Perecko and Rebecca Weeks see an average of 60 women each year assisted by office administrator Elaine Mahler.

One of the biggest benefits to using midwives is their proximity. Rather than travel to Peterborough, for instance, six or seven times nearing the end of the pregnancy, women can visit the midwives. Perecko and Simon both say they try to send women to larger centres only when necessary to reduce time on the road. Following the baby's birth, the midwives travel to women's homes for follow-up visits.

Those who use midwives regularly report shorter labours, less use of analgesics and less significant tearing, Perecko says. After the child is born, the expertise and care given has similar benefits.

"The research that we have shows that this postpartum care that midwives provide [leads to] reduced infection rates in the postpartum period, reduced readmission rates to hospitals for both moms and babies and if people are choosing to breastfeed … the breastfeeding rates are significantly higher than those who want to breastfeed, but don't go with a care provider who has experience and expertise with breastfeeding support," Perecko says.

The Midwifery Service of Haliburton-Bancroft provides three registered midwives to the Haliburton area: from left, Kathleen Perecko, Rebecca Weeks and Stephanie Simon. JENN WATT Staff

Both Simon and Perecko stress that they can provide information, but their jobs are about supporting the decisions of the client.

"If you want an epidural, I will work my hardest to get you an epidural," says Perecko, as an example.

The midwives would like to meet with anyone interested in their services or those who just want information.

"If someone is contemplating [using a midwife] they can certainly come to see us," Simon says.

No referrals are needed and midwives can work with pregnant women at any stage of their pregnancy. For more information, give them a call at 705-457-9992, go to haliburtonbancroftmidwives.ca or check out the open house on Nov. 25 starting at 4:30 p.m. at 64 Victoria St.

Holiday donations to SIRCH feed and comfort

By Jenn Watt

On many Mondays in the spring and fall of 2015 Baked and Battered was packed to the brim with customers. Transformed to a French bistro or a Russian eatery, students in SIRCH's Cook It Up program greeted guests, waited tables and served appetizers, entrees and desserts to hungry patrons.

The meal was free, a clever training program for food industry workers. Diners were asked to make donations and leave comments about the experience.

A tribute to generosity and kindness, the program was successful in large part because of how many people came together to support the trainees, meet their neighbours, try new food and offer their services. In the end, trainees left with a host of skills that would help with finding jobs in food service or other customer service positions.

The last round of trainees, nine in total, were all offered jobs when the program was over.

"I think our training is unique in that it changes people's attitude from I can't to I can. It gives them confidence by letting them interact with the public," says SIRCH executive director Gena Robertson.

In 2016, the Haliburton-based charity held two other training programs: Chic and Unique, which taught upcycling techniques in Haliburton; and Works of Wood, which taught carpentry in Bancroft.

"Our focus is not just on … carpentry or cooking or upcycling. It's also about what are the additional skills you need," Robertson says.

SIRCH is seeking donations from the community this holiday season to help them continue with innovative training opportunities and to support its food and bereavement programs.

Community Kitchen supplies some 3,500 meals a year to those in need and this year intends to continue with its Simply Homemade program, that sells meals for $5 each and supplies food to the summer students at Haliburton School of Art and Design.

"The money [from fundraising] this year is going to fund things that have no permanent government funding," says Robertson.

Aside from bereavement, food and training programs, SIRCH also provides the Community Action Program for Children and the Canada Prenatal Nutrition Program, which receive government funding. Thrift Warehouse in Haliburton and Bancroft are both social enterprises, which create jobs and revenue for the charity through the sale of used goods.

Over its 28-year history, SIRCH has created a large number of programs, many of which continue in the community today. The practice has often been that SIRCH launches the initiative and divests it later. Examples of this include mental health services, hospice services, Dig In workshops and others.

Over the years, SIRCH has become perhaps the only local charity that can adapt to community needs with new programs quickly.

"SIRCH has been part of what has shaped Haliburton County. In that 28th year, we're still trying to create and make positive changes," says Cammie George, Gifts from the Heart campaign co-ordinator.

The campaign organizers hope to surpass $30,000 over the Christmas fundraiser, which will allow the food programming and bereavement programs to continue unabated. Donations also give SIRCH the ability to innovate and create, which is what the organization does best.

"SIRCH is entirely unique," says Robertson. "There are very few communities where there's an organization whose job it is to try to fill gaps working in partnership with other people. We have flexibility to do that," she says. "I think the community has benefited from that ability to be flexible, to take risks, to try new things."

To donate, call SIRCH at 705-457-1742 ex. 28 or go to www.sirch.on.ca or mail a cheque to SIRCH Community Services, Box 687, Haliburton, ON, K0M 1S0. You will receive a gift card in the mail, which you can give to the gift recipient. Tax receipts are issued for donations of $20 or more.

Together ... Making Moments Matter

Learn law: are you a survivor of violent crime?

You can apply to the Criminal Injuries Compensation Board (CICB) for compensation if you are the survivor of a violent crime that has taken place in Ontario.

You can apply for compensation if you have suffered physical, mental, emotional or psychological injuries as a result of a crime of violence, including

- assault
- sexual assault
- child abuse
- domestic violence
- murder

Charges do not have to have been laid against an offender, nor is a conviction required, to apply for compensation. It is only necessary to show it is more likely than not that your injuries are a result of a crime of violence and not some other cause. A statement from a friend or family member, letter from a doctor or counsellor or CAS records can be used to support your claim.

If an offender was convicted, the CICB will accept that a crime of violence occurred.

Are there any limitation dates I need to be aware of?

There is no time limit for bringing a claim if you were a victim of sexual assault or domestic violence or were abused by someone you were dependent on. In all other cases an application should be started within two years of the crime.

However, the CICB often grants extensions of time when there is a good reason to do so. For example, you can ask for an extension of time if you did not know about the CICB or were too upset to bring a claim.

Will CICB notify the offender?

The CICB will notify an offender if there has not been a criminal conviction.

They will provide an offender with additional information if the offender requests it, such as the hearing date and a copy of the application. Medical reports are not normally provided to offenders, and the CICB will never give an offender your contact information.

How much can I be awarded?

Although the maximum award is $25,000, this amount is rarely awarded. When there are multiple incidents, the CICB will usually give a "global award" for the cumulative effects of all the abuse suffered.

The CICB can provide compensation for you to receive counselling. This money is payable directly to a therapist of your choice.

Do I need a lawyer?

You do not need a lawyer to apply for compensation at the CICB. However, a lawyer or paralegal from a community legal clinic can guide you through the CICB process.

How long does the process take?

The process takes approximately one year. However, if there is more than one crime and/or offender, your case may take more time.

An application can be obtained through the CICB website at www.sjto.gov.on.ca/cicb or by phoning the CICB directly at 1-800-372-7463.

More information about the CICB is available on the CICB website or at the websites below:

Brittany Bull plays the role of a soldier's mother, speaking to her son who has returned from war, but is no longer the same. The skit during the school's Remembrance Day assembly showed the impact war has on the family when a soldier returns wounded.

Brendan Taylor, playing a war veteran, sits up after ducking for cover under a chair. The skit examined the effects of PTSD on soldiers returning from conflict zones. HHSS students put on a full range of performances from dance to song on Remembrance Day at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion. JENN WATT Staff

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum
By Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart Music by Stephen Sondheim

Broadway's greatest farce is light, fast-paced, witty, irreverent and one of the funniest musicals ever written. This play is a nonstop laughfest in which Pseudolus, a crafty slave, struggles to win the hand of a beautiful, but slow-witted, courtesan named Philia for his young master, Hero, in exchange for freedom. The plot twists and turns with cases of mistaken identity, slamming doors and a showgirl or two. An unforgettable, hysterical musical – "something for everyone, a comedy tonight!" *Performances July 3-7, 9 (2:30 matinee), 10-13.

Bluegrass festival to heat up Haliburton winter

By Jenn Watt

In the depth of Haliburton winter, the sweet sounds of bluegrass music will be heard drifting across hills of snow and over icy lakes emanating from Pinestone Resort, host venue for Bluegrass in the Highlands Winter Festival Friday, Feb. 24 and Saturday, Feb. 25.

Organizers Lynda Weir, Sue Gallant and Dennis Casey – all lovers of the country subgenre born in the American Appalachians – imagined a gathering during a season when very little bluegrass is happening in Ontario.

"It started with a selfish motivation," Gallant says: the organizers simply wanted to hear more bluegrass. Gallant and Weir are regular attendees of the River Valley festival and over the years had gotten to know many bluegrass groups. They started travelling to other events and then got to thinking about a large period of the year when there is no five-string banjo to be heard.

The last event of the year – the Central Canadian Bluegrass Awards – is at Deerhurst in November. Casey is one of the main organizers of the Minden Hills Bluegrass Festival, which takes place at the fairgrounds in the summer.

It took little persuasion to get groups on board, Weir says. They simply put out a request and the response was positive. Hard Ryde, Winter Line, Davis and Grant, Sweetgrass, Jim Hayward and Willowridge, the Tebworth Brothers, Northland Ramblers and The Benttree Bluegrass Band all agreed to join in. Pinestone was similarly enthusiastic for the opportunity, which takes place after many of the key Haliburton Highlands events.

The organizers envision a relaxed atmosphere with bands playing in the ballroom of the Pinestone and other groups turning the resort into a musical meeting place where they can improvise on the resort's lobby piano or "pick and play" in the many alcoves throughout the property.

The committee is hoping the local community will embrace the festival by buying tickets and that businesses will support the endeavour for its economic development potential by becoming sponsors.

"Locals could come for Friday night where there will be six bands for $35," Weir says. Weekend passes (Friday and Saturday) are $70 in advance, $75 at the door. Saturday only is $45, Saturday evening only is $40. Sponsorships range from "silver" level at $500 to "friends" level at $100 with various perks and incentives.

The committee isn't looking to make money on the festival – they'd just like to break even.

"It's a shoestring budget with no shoestring," laughs Weir.

Weir points out that attendees of the event likely won't stay on the resort property for both days and will be given grab bags with tourism information.

"They're not going to be listening to music the whole time," she says; they might want to rent a snowmobile, take a trip to Timmy's or head up to the Wolf Centre.

For those who have never heard bluegrass music, searching the bands' names on YouTube will produce many examples.

"No matter how sad the words are, you can't help but tap your foot," says Weir. "I'm in awe of them when I hear them."

For more information about the Bluegrass in the Highlands Winter Festival (Friday, Feb. 24 and Saturday, Feb. 25), call Gallant at 705-457-3604; Weir at 705-447-2348/705-935-1105; or email bluegrassinthehighlands@gmail.com. If you book before Dec. 24, your name will be entered in a draw to have the costs of accommodation and weekend pass waived.

Santa Claus parade complications

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

It's that time of year when Santa and his elves parade around town again. We ought to be thankful that the Santa Claus parade goes on every year without a hitch. There are, after all, so many that could derail the event.

Here's 10:

1. An International Union of Elf Toymakers' labour dispute. We've all heard the rumour of hard working conditions for less than acceptable wages. And, let's not forget the rumblings about the elves complaining that working in tights and pointy shoes is unsafe.
2. Santa's sled failing emissions standards testing. I know Santa's sled is pulled by reindeer – and that's precisely the emissions I'm talking about. What if someone gives them feed that disagrees with them?
3. Mrs. Claus wanting a vacation before the Christmas season. If you ask me, it's a miracle Mrs. Claus hasn't demanded this before.
4. Santa being detained by U.S. border security. Let's face it, Santa has a Mexican name and he is a foreigner.
5. Prohibitively high insurance rates. Santa puts on an exorbitant amount of miles to travel to work and back, he drives an old vehicle without turn signals, headlights or seatbelts, he doesn't have a licence (as far as I know) and he is constantly working on roofs without a harness. I'm not sure what his premiums are but I bet they're high.
6. A 100-year-old driver trying to parallel park. If there is anything that can slow up the progress of a parade, it is this.
7. Santa's agent playing hardball. So far, Santa has made appearances in malls and parades at reasonable rates. But honestly, how long can this go on? He's one of the most recognizable celebrities out there.
8. Santa not fitting in his suit. All he does in the off season is eat cookies and drink milk and you can be sure it's not skim milk either.
9. Reindeer protesting hunting season. Every group is politically active these days, why should the reindeer be any different?
10. Trump sues Santa and ties him up in court proceedings. It is entirely conceivable that The Donald would sue Santa for putting him on the naughty list.

FROST RE-ELECTED BY 9500 MAJORITY

Monmouth Council

Council meeting of the Township of Monmouth held Thursday evening, November 15th at 7:30 p.m.

The minutes of the previous meeting were disposed of in the usual manner.

A motion from Gibbs and McColl That Ed Earle be paid for 8 hours for man and team to replace logs along roadside and clear stones from field.

A motion from Gibbs and Finlay That the Clerk write the Department of Highways and Ken Webster in regard to snow plowing Township roads, also secure prices on small rotary snow plow.

A motion from Finlay and Gibbs That this Council appeal to L. A. Boucher, District Road Engineer, and our local member, Hon. L. M. Frost, that our road subsidy be increased to 80 per cent on roads and 100 per cent on bridges as this municipality has more than one third of the total acreage held by the Crown.

A motion from McColl and McCrea That Relief account of $13.50 per paid.

A motion from McCrea and Gibbs that road account for October be paid.

A motion from McColl and Gibbs That the Armstrong Motors account for past 2 years be accepted by this Council.

A motion from McCrea, Gibbs That Accounts No. 42 and 43 covering Mrs Crofts cemetery account and assessors expenses be paid.

A motion from Gibbs and McCrea, That the 1951 Court of Revision be closed.

A motion from Gibbs and McColl That Frank Love be authorized to brush his road 33 feet wide. Work to be done free.

The meeting then adjourned until the next regular session.

Minden Bank Teller Transferred To Forest

Mr J. R. Heffer, the popular bank teller in the Minden Branch of The Canadian Bank of Commerce who has been with the bank here for nearly three years has been transferred to Forest and his position has been filled by Mr G. R. Phippen of Kirkland Lake.

Minden

Major F. J. Struthers of Toronto spent last week in Minden visiting his brother, Mr Orville Struthers, and Mrs Struthers.

Police Court Adjourned

Due to the Crown Attorney attending Senior Court, the police court which was to have been held last week in Haliburton was adjourned.

Eagle Lake Man Found

Mr Earl Laporte of Eagle Lake who became lost on Saturday last while out hunting turned up Sunday morning. When Mr Laporte became lost he showed good judgment in the woods. He built a fire and made himself as comfortable as possible for the night. Next morning he heard shots being fired by a search party and soon located them.

Special Recreation Speaker

Chas. A. Weir, from the Department of Education, Community Programmes Branch, Toronto, along with Miss Orr, will put on a recreation demonstration and speak to High School student, Thursday, November 29th at 4 o'clock Community Hall. There will be an evening session, 8 to 11 also for young and old.

Your Recreation Centre

Question: Why did the roof collapse?

Answer: Three reliable and unbiased contractors state that it was entirely due to inferiod and insufficient lumber used in the truss work which was not capable of supporting the exceptionally heavy snowload.

Question: Was the building insured against falling down?

Answer: No, there is no insurance.

Question: Has the Recreation Centre been a financial success in the past?

Answer: Yes. It has more than earned the amount ($1170.00 per year) required to meet interest and principal payments on present debentures outstanding. It has not cost the taxpayers one cent.

Question: What will it cost to re-build?

Answer: Your committee have received several tenders. Contractors must build to an approved architectural plan, steel or aluminum roof, plus the best materials available. The cost would not exceed $20,000 as submitted by three experienced and reliable firms.

Kuestion: How can this amount be raised?

Answer: Present plan it to raise $5,00 by provincial wide public appeal. This campaign has been successfully launched. The provincial government have assured us that we will receive 25 per cent of the cost or $5,000 in the form of a grant.

The balance of $10,000 to be of 5½ per cent . 15 years Township debentures.

Question: What will this cost the taxpayers?

Answer: The annual payment of principal and interest on a $10,000 loan amounts to $990 per year over a 15 year period. This amounts to less than 3 mills on our tax rate—example, if your assessment is $200 your [illegible] approximately 60 cents per year.

Question: Can it be built in time to use this winter?

Answer: This depends on you, if the financing can be arranged by the 1st of December the contractors claim they can have the job finished by the 15th of January.

Question: What if we just forge the whole thing?

Answer: We not only forget one of the biggest assets in the Township including hockey, curling, skating, figue skating and children's recreation etc., but we also go on paying about 3½ mills on our assessment for the next thirteen years on the present mortgage as without the centre there can be no earnings to carry on these payments as they have been doing in the past.

Let's all get our shoulders to the wheel.

Minden Recreation Committee—Reg Booth, Harold Morgan, Jack Jackson, Mac Irwin, Cliff Booth, Ken Currie.

Haliburton Resident Awarded $8,800 Damages

Haliburton, Ontario—In a judgement handed down in Supreme Court in Lindsay, Lou Consky of Haliburton was awarded $5,000 for permanent injuries suffered by his son in an accident in which the boy was severely burned, and $3,800 for expenses.

Originally, the case was brought against Mrs. R. Hanna, Bernard Hutchings and Herbert Sherman but Mrs. Hanna and Mr. Hutchings were absolved of any blame.

The case arose out of an accident in which a car which would not start was being repaired. Gasoline was poured into the carburator and when the starter was depressed the can containing the gasoline caught fire. It was tossed aside and the flaming gas showered on young Stanley Consky who was standing nearby.

Judgment was given against Herbert Sherman by Mr Justice Smyley.

Mrs Henna was represented at the trial by Mr. D. Thomson of Lindsay, Mr Consky by T. Carley of Peterborough and Jos. Staples of Lindsay for Mr. Hutchings.

Newmarket Defeat Monarchs 10-3

The Newmarket Redmen were too much for the Minden Monarchs last night in a thrilling hockey game played at Newmarket. A good crowd sat in to see a conditioned Newmarket team step out against the Monarchs who were playing their first game of the season. For most of the Monarchs it was their first time on skates this season.

Newmarket led by the score of 2-0 at the end of the first period. It was 7-2 at the finish of the second and 10-3 was the final score.

Minden played with only two defencemen, Joe Iles and Max Richardson and both of them had to play 60 minutes which isn't anything new for either of these boys.

Goal getters for Minden were: Cec Olmstead, Herb Baker and Bud Kernohan. The Nicholls brothers, Bud Dart and Claude didn't make the trip.

Breslau Rebshirts Barred 'Too Good'

Kitchener, Nov. 21—Officials of the South Waterloo Rural Hockey league admitted yesterday that players from last year's all-Ontario rural championship team, the Breslau Redshirts, have been barred from competing in the South Waterloo league this year.

League President John Miehm of Centreville said the Redshirts had always been an "A" team in a "B" league and to let Redshirt men play for any other team would unbalance the league.

John Geasby, district convenor for the Ontario Rural Hockey association, said the South Waterloo loop would probably fold up if any of the teams signed the Breslau players.

It was reported that the Redshirts have applied for a berth in the Western Ontario amateur athletic intermediate series.—Toronto Daily Star.
